How did Shorewood come to be?

First discovered by Pere Jacques Marquette, the area that became Shorewood was purchased in 1832 and has gone through many changes. The area was named Mechanicsville in 1836, Humboldt in 1850, Cementville in 1876 and East Milwaukee until changing to its present name in 1917.

In 1872, the beginnings of Hubbard Park were laid to attract visitors to the Village. There was also a succession of amusement parks (Mineral Springs in 1900, Wonderland in 1905 and Ravenna in 1909) that stretched east from the river to what is now Oakland Avenue – however, this ended in 1916.

Concrete sidewalks were added to the Village in 1910, street signs and gas mains in 1911 and the first paved street was in 1913. Population in the Village started from 300 in 1900 reached peak population of 16,199 in 1950. Today, with a stable population of around 13,500, the one-mile square Village of Shorewood is the most densely populated community in the State of Wisconsin. Many historical markers from these eras are still visible around the village; you can find many of them listed on the Shorewood Historical Society’s website: shorewoodhistory.org/historical_markers/index.html

The Ghost Train – The Ghost Train is an artistic sensory experience at the Oak Leaf Trail Bridge and Capitol Drive. It made its inaugural run on October 31, 2016. This first-of-its-kind public art installation will enable visitors to travel back in history, imagining the round-trip journey of the ‘Twin Cities 400’ which crossed that same location from 1935 to 1963. Touted as the fastest passenger train in the world, the Chicago & North Western Railway’s ‘400’ routinely covered the 400 miles between Chicago and St. Paul in just under 400 minutes. The Ghost Train is the next phase of an exciting long-term public art vision for the Village. The $375,000 project was entirely funded by individuals, foundations and Shorewood organizations without using tax dollars – 90% of which was raised in 90 days. The times the train can be seen are listed below.

From October 1 to March 15, Northbound 8:00 PM and Southbound 8:30 PM. From March 16 to September 30, Northbound 9:30 PM and Southbound 10:00 PM.

What is Shorewood's vision for the future?

Working with staff, community residents and the Village Board, the Village of Shorewood first developed an image of what it would like to look like twenty years into the future in 2005. This topic was then updated in 2009 and in 2014 there has been a community-wide effort to revisit the vision for the Village.

As a result of these meetings, the Village published the Vision 2025 Plan. This document includes steps the Village plans to take to achieve the goals listed below as part of its vision for the future and the document can be reviewed here.
